SAP Builds Green; To Acquire Fast Rising Clear Standards Inc.

Multinational enterprise software leader SAP is getting serious about clean technology and reducing carbon emissions--both inside and outside the organization. Recent moves are a sign that SAP isn't merely "talking the talk," but "walking the walk" when it comes to reducing the negative environmental impact of its business. On May 1, SAP announced details of the expansion of its campus in Philadelphia's Newton Square. Designed by FXFOWLE Architects, the recently completed 200,000 square foot building's sustainable design features include a roof planted with grass and other native plants, a geothermal heating and cooling system, and toilets that use rainwater. SAP management apparently also sees clean information systems technology as a promising market niche. Just yesterday, the company announced that it was looking to acquire Clear Standards, Inc., a privately-held developer of a "Sustainability 2.0" software-as-a-service (SaaS) information systems platform that enables companies to gather data, analyze, manage and report on the greenhouse gas emissions and other environmental impacts of their operations. ... -- CLICK HERE to Continue Reading and Comment
